GREENSBORO, NORTH CAROLINA'S BREAST CANCER ALLIANCE DELIVERS COMPREHENSIVE CARE WITH A TEAM APPROACH

Today, all forms of cancer treatment involve many disciplines. Central Carolina Surgery helps coordinate The Breast Care Alliance. Every step of the care journey is organized into one seamless, compassionate process.

Dr. Faera L. Byerly of Central Carolina Surgery says, "In partnership with our hospital system and a host of private providers, we have coordinated with radiology, pathology, radiation oncology, medical oncology, plastic surgery, physical therapy, counselors, and others to remove as much confusion and fear from the process as feasible for breast cancer patients in the greater Greensboro, North Carolina region."

ADVANCED MEDICAL PROCEDURES CLOSE TO HOME

The majority of women with breast cancer undergo surgery in the form of a mastectomy or lumpectomy. Central

Carolina Surgery doctors are trained and experienced in today's most advanced, minimally invasive procedures such as nipple-sparing, hidden scar, and Radioactive Seed Localization (RSL).

Breast cancer surgeon, Dr. Matthew Wakefield, Central Carolina Surgery and Medical Director of the Cone Health Breast Cancer Program, says, "With breast cancer procedures we have brought to Greensboro, we have survival rates approaching 99% when treated early. Women survive, and within a few years, scarring is minimal."
