

Providing Outstanding Care in a Professional and Comforting Environment

Experience, professionalism, and compassion set Boise Oral Surgery & Dental Implant Center apart.

Dr. Jeffrey Scott Bobst is an Idaho native, and as such, he sees his patient base as neighbors, family, and friends. He's made it his mission to make every patient feel important, heard, and understood. "We go the extra mile," says the board-certified oral and maxillofacial surgeon. Dr. Bobst follows up by phone with every patient, for example, to answer questions and ensure recovery is proceeding as it should, and he's accessible nearly around the clock should a patient need him.

His practice, Boise Oral Surgery & Dental Implant Center, is all about ensuring a positive experience. Specializing in dental implants and the extraction of wisdom teeth, Dr. Bobst believes communicating with patients before and after surgery is key to a positive doctor-patient relationship. He seeks to diminish the fear patients carry with them and instead instill them with confidence. "We care about our patients, and I want them to know that," Dr. Bobst shares.

Wisdom Teeth Extraction

Wisdom teeth removal is a procedure no one looks forward to but that nearly everyone will need to have done. Dr. Bobst says that with his experience, this surgery is routine. "We can consult with the patient and perform the surgery all in the same day, and we ensure patients are properly sedated and comfortable throughout," he adds.

While patients of all ages are subject to extraction, Dr. Bobst recommends that the procedure be completed as early as possible. When performed at younger ages, patients typically heal faster and experience fewer infections and nerve complications. "Younger patients require less recovery time and may benefit from improved periodontal health and less crowding," he says.

Whether for a social call or to discuss a complex surgical issue, Dr. Bobst invites everyone to stop by the office and say hi. "I would appreciate the opportunity to meet with you," he concludes. "Your care is our No. 1 concern."

Dental Implants

Dental implants account for a significant portion of Dr. Bobst's schedule. Experienced in all implant technologies, he's particularly adept at full-mouth replacement.

"Implants are ideal for patients looking for a long-term, healthy, and cost-effective solution for replacing missing or failing teeth," Dr. Bobst explains. "Dental implants are comfortable and reliable, and they prevent the destructive bone atrophy that can occur when there is no longer a tooth root secured within the jaw bone."

Implant options include traditional titanium, zygomatic (longer implants based closer to the cheekbone and used when there is not enough bone present for traditional implants), and zirconia implants for patients seeking a more holistic, biocompatible option.

According to Dr. Bobst, anyone who desires more confidence and a better smile can get implants. "But patients must seek out a provider who has extensive experience and quality training," he notes. "With us, you'll find both."

Boise Oral Surgery & Dental Implant Center can also deliver results faster than other practices. Whereas others need three to six months to get the job done, Dr. Bobst and his team can usually get the job done in six to eight weeks.
