A REJUVENATED LOOK

Greenspring Medical Aesthetics empowers people to look the way they feel with minimally invasive treatments.

It's no longer considered an extravagance to correct the visible signs of stress and aging, as minimally invasive cosmetic medicine is quickly becoming an integral part of the normal self-care process. With over 27 years in the business, Greenspring Medical Aesthetics in Tucson knows this well. The practice has experienced the growth of medical aesthetics firsthand, helping real patients achieve real results through a wide variety of techniques designed to achieve a desired appearance and help patients look as young as they feel.

"We treat people who have a very healthy perspective about their body but want to have a certain aesthetic," says Alexander Cadoux, M.D., aesthetic physician and owner of Greenspring Medical Aesthetics. "By coming to our center, they are empowered to do something about it."

Treatments include non-surgical facelifts, lip enhancements, hair removal, Botox®, CoolSculpting®, and procedures that can tighten or reshape other parts of the body including the neck, hands, torso, and buttocks. With two locations in Tucson—Catalina Foothills and Central—Greenspring Medical Aesthetics is one of the most popular medspas in the area.

Compared to plastic surgery, medical aesthetics treatments have the potential to achieve a more natural look. Nonsurgical facelifts are one common example.

"Surgical facelifts can lift and tighten by reducing excess skin, but the procedure sometimes results in skin that has an unnaturally tight look," says Dr. Cadoux. "This is because "Often, people are happy with just a restoration of their facial volume. When performed properly, fillers look natural and don't draw attention to the fact that you've had a procedure done."

A Full Menu

Greenspring Medical Aesthetics offers one of the widest selections of treatment options and technologies in the Tucson area to match each patient's needs and goals. "We have over 20 different types of lasers so we can pick the best one for a patient's specific condition," Dr. Cadoux says.

In addition, Greenspring Medical Aesthetics is committed to making medical aesthetics treatments as easy and convenient as possible by offering a number of flexible options, including price matching, monthly specials, and complimentary consultations, as well as Saturday and after-hours injectable appointments. Whether a patient is new to medical aesthetics or already has experience with medspa services, Greenspring Medical Aesthetics has something for everyone—and a proven record of exceptional results.

"Take a look at our gallery of before and after photos," Dr. Cadoux says. "You won't believe these transformations didn't involve surgery."

aging of the face often results from a loss of volume rather than excess skin. People often develop deep troughs, shallow cheeks, and hollow temples as their faces lose volume with age."

At Greenspring Medical Aesthetics, highly trained specialists combine artistry, experience, and value with technical skill to accomplish facial restorations by integrating therapies such as dermal fillers, Ultherapy®, Profound®, lasers, and many other services. Restoring volume helps patients achieve a more natural, youthful, and healthy look.

"Most people don't need a surgical facelift," Dr. Cadoux says.
