

Living their best life...

It's the retirement setting so many dream of: gently winding streets and walking trails on a 28-acre campus. Relax and enjoy cocktails in the lounge. Exercise with a personal trainer. Dine in upscale dining venues. Close your door and travel without a care in the world. Everything a retiree could need or want.

Times are Changing

In keeping with the desires and expectations of aging baby boomers, The Village is moving forward with an outdoor enhancement plan to update courtyards and provide more recreational amenities to possibly include: fire pits, outdoor dining venues, a concert stage for live music, and a dog park. "The Village is committed to not only maintaining but exceeding the expectations of our upscale clientele through our services and amenities. We pride ourselves on providing a home and way of life that allows our residents to continue to live well as they age," says Mike Craft, CEO at The Village.

Welcome to The Village at Germantown, a not-for-profit, continuing care retirement community, "CCRC/LifeCare," located just outside Memphis in the heart of Germantown. Built in 2005, The Village has 202 independent living apartments and 28 villas. Each residence is unique and can be customized to the resident's individual style. "We do our best to recreate their current home," says Leslie Reed, The Village's vice president of sales.

Abundant Living at Every Stage

As a CCRC/LifeCare community, The Village provides the full continuum of care—independent living, assisted living, memory care, short-term rehabilitation, and long term skilled nursing. Thus residents can "age in place" without ever having to worry about home upkeep and future healthcare needs.
